ZAMZAM PASSENGERS SAFE, IS CLAIM OF THE GERMAN GOV'T

Veil of Mystery Torn Aside; Say Ship Halted, Passengers Taken, and Craft Sunk

HELD AS PRISONERS

Whereabouts of 140 Americans Unknown; Landed in German-Occupied Territory

By Pierre J. Huss
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, May 20.—The German government tore the veil of mystery from fate of the Egyptian liner Zamzam today with announcement she had been halted, searched and sunk on the high seas and all aboard—including scores of Americans—rescued and taken prisoner.

A brief official statement accused the Zamzam of carrying contraband designed for use of British forces and the so-called "Free French" detachments of General De Gaulle in Africa.

Exact whereabouts of the 140 or more Americans who sailed from New York aboard the Zamzam for medical and ambulance service with the De Gaulle forces or as missionaries in darkest Africa were not known.

They, along with other passengers and all the crew, were landed "somewhere in German-occupied territory."

German officials did not in any way identify the ship which sank the Zamzam as a prize of war, presumably somewhere in the South Atlantic.

It was obvious that the ship which sank the Zamzam was a surface raider—possibly a "Q-ship" of the cleverly-disguised Wolf type, and not a submarine. Germany has no submarines capable of taking aboard the full complement of a ship the size of the Zamzam.

German officialdom sharply attacked the "triumphant, eager and over-hasty howling of British-American warmongers who lamented the alleged dead of the Zamzam sinking prematurely in an effort to stampede public opinion."

WASHINGTON, May 20.—State Department officials, awaiting information regarding the German announcement of the sinking of the Egyptian liner Zamzam, expressed the opinion that the American passengers aboard probably would be released.

Morrisville Justice Collects $122 in Fines

MORRISVILLE, May 20.—Fines turned over by Justice of Peace, Neal Nolan, for the month of April amounted to $122, according to the monthly report of Albert Cooper, Chief of Police.

These fines included two passing red light, one fined $5, one discharged; two overloads, each fined $50; one illegal parking, fined $2; one drunk and disorderly, fined $10, and one disorderly conduct, fined $5. There were seven arrests, two accidents investigated and one robbery reported.

The police had 62 radio calls and patrolled 2,710 miles during the past month.

FRACTURES LEG

Falling over a barbed wire on Sunday, Edward Eggert, aged two, of Maple Shade, fractured the upper portion of his right leg. Treatment was administered at Harriman Hospital.

Slight Damage Done By A Fire at South Langhorne

SOUTH LANGHORNE, May 20.—Slight damage was done when fire was discovered yesterday morning at the home of Michael Byelich, LaGrand avenue, here.

The blaze apparently started in the meter box in the basement of the residence, and damage was confined to the board surrounding the box, insulation on wiring, and to some firewood nearby.

William Penn Fire Company of Hulmeville was summoned, with members using hand extinguishers. The Hulmeville Company has been answering alarms for the South Langhorne Company while booster brakes were being placed on the latter's engine. This work is now complete, it is stated.

LANGHORNE PASTOR TO LEAVE FOR ARMY DUTY

Rev. Walter F. Humphrey To Be Located at Camp Belvoir, Va., as Chaplain

HAD SERVED OVERSEAS

LANGHORNE, May 20.—The Rev. Walter F. Humphrey, who has served as pastor of Langhorne Methodist Church since 1935, has volunteered his services as a chaplain in the United States Army. The Rev. Humphrey, who holds the rank of captain, will leave about June 1st, for Camp Belvoir, Virginia.

A veteran of World War No. 1, the Rev. Humphrey expects to be in the service one year, and possibly two years.

He has already relinquished his duties at the church which he has served for the past six years, and supplies are caring for the services until such time as a pastor is chosen to succeed the Rev. Mr. Humphrey.

During the first World War, the clergyman served for one year overseas. He is a member and also the chaplain of Jesse W. Soby Post, No. 148, American Legion.

A member of the Philadelphia Conference since 1911, he first served as pastor of the Coventryville Methodist Church, being assigned there in 1915. Subsequently he served at St. Paul's and Harmony churches, then in the United States Army, Swarthmore, Catasauqua, Amble, Morrisville, Minersville, and Langhorne.

100 Blood-Tested Chicks Are Shipped To Nigeria

A total of 100 blood-tested, healthy Jersey baby chicks have started a journey to Lagos, capital of Nigeria, on the west coast of Africa.

The chicks were hatched at Frenchtown, N. J. The birds are classed as aristocrats of the Rhode Island Red strain and were purchased for crossing with native poultry to improve the flocks of the African colony.

During the two-week voyage, the little travelers will be kept in special battery pens, constructed under supervision of Dr. K. H. Prior, formerly of Picton, Ontario, who, accompanied by his wife, is returning to his African post as agricultural missionary for the Church of England.

Dr. Prior said the chicks were the first selection he has made from American flocks, previous stocks having been bought in England.

"Free French" Forces To Defy Petain

By International News Service
London, May 20.—"Free French" forces commanded by General de Gaulle in far-flung sections of Africa rushed preparations today to defy the Vichy government of Marshal Petain.

Open warfare between the Vichy regime and the free French colonies threatened as a result of a threat by the Petain Government to regain these African possessions.

Claim Man Confesses Triple Murder

By International News Service
Wilmington, Del., May 20.—Clarence Webb, 28 year old farm manager wanted for the axe-murders of his wife, Ethel, 25, and two children, was apprehended today near Odessa and confessed to the brutal crime, according to authorities.

While being trailed by two state troopers in a prowl car, Webb pulled to the side of a road, leaped from the vehicle and ran into a field where he shot himself in the stomach.

Doctors at Delaware hospital said he would recover unless complications develop. Police said he would be formally charged with the triple slaying. Besides Mrs. Webb, the victims were Clarence, Jr., five, and Judith, nine months.

PAYS TAXES WITH NICKELS

SELLERSVILLE, May 20.—Bucks County Treasurer Samuel L. Althouse was nearly thrown for a loss yesterday when a woman, whose name was not disclosed, handed him a bag and said: "Feel the weight of that."

He did, and it was heavy, for inside were close to 500 Indianhead nickels with which she wished to pay him for delinquent taxes on her property in Sellersville.

Vichy Gives Warnings

Vichy, May 20.—Official warnings that France will defend all sections of her empire and seek to recover the African colonies now held by General de Gaulle were published by all Vichy newspapers today.

Simultaneously, it was revealed that French air minister Gen. Bergeret arrived at Beirut to meet Gen. Henri Dentz, Vichy's High Commissioner for Syria.

Battle for Possession of Crete

London, May 20.—A tremendous battle for possession of the Greek Mediterranean Island of Crete raged today as German parachute troops landed there in "great strength."

A communique issued by the British Middle East Command in Cairo stated: "Early today German parachutists and air-borne troops attempted to secure a footing in Crete. A number already have been accounted for."

Informed British quarters, receiving sketchy reports of the fighting, indicated the attack had been launched by the greatest force of air-borne soldiers yet known to modern warfare.

Covered by dive bombers that poured down high explosives from great altitudes, the German forces were reported to have parachuted to earth in stupendous numbers.

Savage hand to hand fighting was believed to be in progress as the Nazi parachutists engaged British and Greek defenders of the island.

Dismisses Tax Reduction Proposal

Harrisburg, May 20.—The Democratic party's proposal to reduce the State's four mill personal property tax was dismissed by Gov. Arthur H. James today as an empty political gesture.

He saw the proposal as an opposition attempt to build political fences for next year's gubernatorial race and scoffed at predictions by Democratic legislative leaders that revenue in the 1941-43 biennium will be greater than in the preceding fiscal period.

Governor James said it is imperative that the state postpone taking over operation of 12 county mental institutions and reiterated that it is not possible now to cut taxes and still balance the budget.

MORRISVILLE UNIT TO RENOVATE HOSPITAL ROOM

Women Vote To Improve Naylor Memorial at McKinley Hospital

NEXT MEETING JUNE 10

MORRISVILLE, May 20.—The Harriet Naylor Memorial Room in the McKinley Hospital, Trenton, N. J., is to be renovated under the sponsorship of the Morrisville Auxiliary of the hospital. This was the decision reached at a meeting of the organization held at the home of Mrs. Charles C. Young.

The renovation will include new linoleum, repolished furniture and general improvement to the room. It was reported that the other auxiliary room, the Morrisville Room, has been finished and is now in excellent condition, with permanent walls, new floor, new tables, beds, lamps, etc.

Miss Ruth Barker, director of nurses at McKinley, was the speaker and suggested to the group the improvements to the Harriet Naylor Memorial. Plans are under way for a trip through a Philadelphia ice cream factory at a date to be announced shortly.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cleveland Reed, of 163 North Delmor Avenue, on June 10 at 1 o'clock, and be in the form of a covered dish luncheon, the last meeting until Fall. At this session the Rainy Day bags and birthday money will be due.

Several women of the auxiliary recently visited the hospital on National Hospital Day and were served a tea at the Nurses' Home.

CARDS TOMORROW

A card party will be conducted in the Travel Club home, tomorrow evening, by Morning Star Chapter of the Eastern Star. The hour is eight o'clock. Mrs. John Johnson is chairman.

HAS LACERATION

Striking his forehead as he fell, Anthony McHugh, Ritter avenue, West Bristol, sustained a laceration of the forehead, requiring two stitches. He was treated at Harriman Hospital.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

The South Langhorne Fire Company members have replaced the brake system on their fire-truck, the cost of the work being $150. The work was of vital importance to efficient operation of the apparatus, it is said.

Plans are also being pushed to complete painting and decorating of the meeting room. Work is being rushed in order to have the room in shape for the monthly card parties conducted by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Alfred Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Long, Blooming Glen, and a member of St. Andrew's Lutheran Church at Perkaskie, was among the class of graduates who on Friday received diplomas at the commencement exercises at the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy, Philadelphia.

The Rev. Atwood T. Smith, pastor of St. Andrew's Lutheran Church, and the parents of the graduate attended.

After completing his studies in the Hilltown township schools he entered Souderton high school from which he was graduated in 1934. He was graduated from Muhlenberg College in 1938.

The Plumsteadville Grange conducted a Mother's Day program on Friday, when 66 gathered in the grange hall of Plumsteadville.

Floyd Fryling conducted the meeting, with a program of entertainment following.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT CONGRATULATES UNIT

Soby Post Auxiliary of American Legion Has Busy Session

AID TO VETERANS

LANGHORNE, May 20.—With Mrs. Melvin James, of Gwynedd, president of Montgomery-Bucks Council of American Legion Auxiliaries in attendance, the Auxiliary members of Jesse W. Soby Post met last evening in the Memorial House.

In addressing the members briefly, Mrs. James told of the organizing last Saturday of a Junior Auxiliary Council. The next meeting of the Junior council is scheduled for June 21st at 10.30, at Fort Washington. She congratulated the local unit on its work, stating "You have covered your activities 100 per cent."

Items of business were numerous, due to proximity of Memorial Day, and plans being made to aid veterans both at Coatesville Veterans Hospital and at Philadelphia Hospital for the Insane at Byberry. Mrs. Ernest Robinson was the presiding officer, with Mrs. Gilbert Bonnell being in charge of records.

Mrs. Joseph Zalot announced that Junior members will aid with poppy sales, also the members of the drum and bugle corps. Two prizes are to be offered, to the two selling the largest number of poppies. The prizes will be $2 and $1. The Juniors will have their next meeting on Monday evening.

It was mentioned by Mrs. Frank Cassidy that the emergency first aid course will end during the next two weeks, with presentation of certificates being made when all classes of this section finish the required study.

Auxiliary members will aid Soby Post in entertaining the veterans at Coatesville Hospital on August 24th. The women will also assist financially in entertaining a number of invalid veterans at a picnic at Sunnybrook on June 4th.

Account of the last meeting of Bi-County Council, held at Bristol, was made by Mrs. John Ziegler.

A bazaar was planned for June 27th and 28th, this to be on the Memorial House grounds. The committee in charge is composed of: Mrs. Harry Bergbauer, Mrs. Gilbert Bonnell, Mrs. Ernest Robinson, Mrs. Hart. Additional funds will be raised by a series of summer card parties which members will conduct at their homes.

The Auxiliary plans to sponsor a local girl to go to Keystone State Camp this summer. It was mentioned by Mrs. Frank Cassidy that the drum and bugle corps secured $126 on its tag day recently. The corps will purchase 12 more uniforms, and for the color guard will buy jackets and plumes.

A covered dish supper followed, with Mrs. Warren Randall and Mrs. Frank Buckley in charge. Nomination and election will occur at the June meeting, the final session for the season.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The President's Load

he can do; that what he is attempting to do is beyond his capacity—or, for that matter, any man's capacity.

EVIDENCE that it is far beyond his capacity is attested in two ways. First, there is the undeniable fact that nothing governmental in Washington is being well done. It isn't merely that the defense job is being botched. That indictment is made not by the opponents of the Administration.

It is made by men on the inside of the defense organization itself, such, for example, as Mr. W. L. Batt, deputy director of the OPM's production division, who, with various colleagues, a few days ago made public a blistering report upon the management of the defense program.

IT is not only that, as Mr. Batt reports, the defense job lags, but few of the normal governmental agencies are being kept up to their pre-defense standards. And no one has contended that they have been very high at any time in the last eight years. Mr. Roosevelt himself has said that the weakest thing about the New Deal has been its administration. That, of course, is true, if you except its basic unsoundness. Today the most superficial examination of the governmental agencies reveals a general letdown in efficiency and force, a marked deterioration in personnel and morale. The SEC is an example. With a chairman known to be angling for a Federal Judge.

J., and Miss Rosalie Kucny, Cornwells Heights, attended the graduation.

BRISTOL MAN GIVEN JAIL TERM FOR SHOOTING

Guisepppe Indelicato Pleads Guilty To Charges Involving Five Counts

OTHER COURT CASES

DOYLESTOWN, May 20.—Guisepppe Indelicato, 52, a Bristol laborer, who formerly resided at 1902 Trenton avenue, that borough, pleaded guilty in Bucks County court yesterday to three charges involving five counts—attempts with intent to kill, assault with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery, and carrying a firearm without a license.

A sentence of from six months to five years in the county prison, in addition to payment of costs amounting to approximately $100, was imposed by Judge Calvin S. Boyer.

Indelicato told the court that he was not himself when on December 2nd last he found himself much disgusted, blaming the frame of mind on domestic troubles. He is said to have gone to the store of his brother, "Gus" Indelicato, Jefferson avenue, on December 2nd, aiming at his brother, and firing two shots. One shot entered the foot of the defendant's nephew, Nicholas Indelicato, Elm street.

Judge Boyer sentenced Indelicato on one bill, and suspended sentence on two other bills. His Honor said to the defendant: "Apparently you, in your drunken way, really wanted to maim your brother. You may have only intended to cripple him, but if you had killed him the jury would have had trouble not finding you guilty in sending you on your way to the electric chair. When a brother becomes so drunk and enraged that he walks several blocks, gets a loaded revolver and comes back to his brother's place in order to maim him, that conduct becomes a matter of public concern. The court must make an example when someone loses his head and attempts to shoot it out."

Approximately a dozen character witnesses, including several prominent Bristol Italians, informed the court that Indelicato had a fine character until domestic troubles occurred with his second wife from whom he is now separated. The defendant was represented by J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Bristol. Indelicato had been arrested in 1937 by his wife on a charge of disorderly conduct.

James Jones, 45, colored, a resident of Beaver Dam Road, Bristol, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of drunk driving. His sentence was from three months to three years. This was his second offense, it was stated. Jones was arrested last January 11th after his car figured in an accident.

Arraigned in court on a drunken driving charge, Frederick O. Heiser, 48, of West Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia, was given a suspended sentence by Judge Boyer on condition that he pay the costs and the sum of $100 in lieu of a fine. Heiser is a truck driver.

Eleven of the 44 cases listed on the docket for the May session, Courts of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of Bucks County, are drunken driving offenses.

President Judge Hiram H. Keller charged the Grand Jury at the opening of court, yesterday, appointed Samuel E. Spare, Doylestown electrician and World War veteran, foreman of that body.

Bessie E. Lynch, Croydon, and Norman L. Roberts, Tullytown, were excused from Grand Jury duty. Eight women and 13 men are serving on the jury.

Assistant District Attorney Willard Curtin called the first case before the Grand Jury.

There are 13 continued cases and 31 new cases on the trial list. Those charged with driving while drunk include Furman Brown, James Jones, Frederick O. Heiser, Edward Pearson, Andrew Peoples, Jr., Abraham Perry, Edward Courtney, John Kuzmik, John Nevin, Richard Waterhouse and William Parker.

Other cases on the list are as follows: Felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods; Frank Chico, Joseph Zavatsky, Clara Hayman, Walter Mathews.

Non-support of illegitimate children; Frederick de M. Bertram. Uttering a forged instrument; J. J. Walker, Donald F. McGrath.

SIXTY MEN LEAVE HERE TOMORROW FOR EXAMINATION

Will Be Given Physical Tests Before Being Called To Service

BY ARMY BOARD

New Method Prevents Giving Up Jobs; Also Embarrassment of Rejection

Following a new plan whereby young men eligible under the selective service law for the United States Army, may have their physical examinations completed before being summoned for service, 60 young men will leave here for such examinations tomorrow.

Under the new method the young men are given both the preliminary examinations by local physicians, and the army board examinations prior to being called to service. This relieves the embarrassment of being sent home from the induction centers; and also the possibility of relinquishing jobs and then finding themselves rejected by the boards.

Fifty-eight white men and two colored men will leave here by train tomorrow morning for Philadelphia, where they will be examined. They will be there for but one day, unless it is impossible to complete examinations tomorrow. In that event the tests will be finished on Thursday.

The men will then return to their homes, to await word as to whether they passed the required examinations, and if so to await calls to a year of service each.

The date of the next call for selectees has not been determined, according to an announcement by the Bucks County Board No. 1, with headquarters in the post office building.

Parents Entertained By Junior Group at Croydon

CROYDON, May 20.—The girls of Troops No. 1 and No. 2, Croydon Junior Catholic Daughters of America, entertained their parents in honor of "Mothers Day" on Saturday.

The numbers presented were as follows: prologue, Rita Bahr; tableau and "Ave Maria" sung by a group; recitation, "Gift from Heaven"; piano solo, Rosemary Hafele; recitation, "Mother"; song, "Dad"; recitation, "Ma and Her Auto"; jumping rope tap dance, Helene and Patsy Coyne; song, "Old Refrain"; recitation, "Only a Dad"; one act play, "Wanted—A Wife" with Kathleen Bigger taking the role of Jason Doskins, and the song, "I Don't Want To Play In Your Yard" by a group of five.

The entire program was under the direction of counselors, Mrs. Helen Coyne and Mrs. Mabel Binneman. Refreshments were served, and each parent received a white carnation and a gold pin.

The other children participating were: Amelia Rotunno, Betty Seader, Doris Farrell, Kathryn O'Donnell, Joan Thompson, Madeline Kostka, Peggy Wong, Marie Williamson, Norma Rutland, Edith Schade, Margaret and Dorothy Tryon, Olga Miller, Edith Schade, Anne Baines, Edna Bigger, Marie Belerby, Doris Storms, Ada Lineman and Dorothy Wunsch.

Innocenzi-DeMoia Wedding Performed at St. Ann's

Miss Patricia DeMoia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocco DeMoia, Logan street, was wed Sunday afternoon to Mr. Louis Innocenzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Innocenzi, Trenton, N. J., the Rev. Father Peter Pinci officiating at the ceremony in St. Ann's Church.

"The Rosary" was sung by Miss Yolanda DiFelice, with Miss Frances Tamburella as accompanist. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Conca, Lafayette street; and Mr. Frank DeMoia, brother of the bride, was the groomsman.

A reception followed the ceremony, it being held at the home of the groom's parents. Upon their return from a trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Innocenzi will make their home at 420 Logan street.

GRASS FIRE

Bristol Consolidated firemen were called at about 11 o'clock this morning to extinguish a grass fire on what is generally known as the Hugh Hill's tract along Magnolia Road.

DRAFT REVISIONS

One thing disclosed by the peace-time draft for training purposes is that no difficulty is found in getting a sufficiency of manpower to conscript a vast army. Another thing is that the basis of the draft can be revised without detriment to the purpose it embodies. Hence the present discussion as to the desirability of amending age brackets and of amending other requirements in such manner as will lessen economic and industrial strains.

In this connection General Hershey, national director of selective service, says this as to a revision of draft procedure to exempt men more than 30 years old:

"They are too settled after that age. They are past their physical peak and find it hard to learn new skills. That has been our experience in the draft to date."

Among the older men, those in their thirties, General Hershey said, "There is a great deal more dependency than we find among younger draftees and physical disabilities are more frequent."

Evidently second thoughts are now coming into play in place of the first enthusiasms which brought into being a universal draft.

BERLIN DIAGNOSIS

For a hot verbal battle, it would be hard to beat one between a man who is ill because he is cross and one who is cross because he is ill. It beats the old argument about which came first, hen or egg, and, besides, it is worth all the fuss. If it could be settled, it would mean much to the human race.

A noted German physician, Dr. Schultze-Hencke, holds the view that many illnesses of the stomach, liver, and heart are brought about by mental factors such as worry, fear and anger. Although he apparently leaves room for the point of view that a bad stomach, an inactive liver, or a tired heart may cause one to worry, induce melancholy or make one irritable, he seems to think it is more often the other way around.

It remains an open question, and perhaps both sides are a little right. At any rate, the learned Berlin physician has an interesting subject right at home. The world would like very much to know whether it is some organic disorder that makes Hitler the way he is, or whether his hatreds are going to destroy him by destroying his stomach, liver, or heart, if any.

BARTER AND GOLD

Washington is still trying to pull some plan out of the bag that will improve trade relations with Latin America. Latest suggestion is a food stamp for both Americas. All of the American nations would exchange surpluses and distribute them through relief channels. Wheat, cotton, and fruits would flow southward in exchange for Latin America's sugar, coffee, cocoa, bananas, and other products.

This collides with the same old objection that the surpluses of the important Latin nations coincide with those of North America. Brazil could take no cotton and Argentina no wheat, corn, and livestock. Moreover, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay have agreements to exchange their own products as much as possible.

But there is significance in the plan. It is that barter is entering more and more prominently into all foreign trade programs. Barter, in fact, may be the coming thing.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM SUBURBAN TOWNS

HULMEVILLE

Following a three-day visit to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daseburg in Archbald, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Daseburg returned to their home yesterday. A trip to Pennsburg was made over the week-end by Mr. and Mrs. William Hubbard.

New Library Building Acquired at New Hope

Henry Chapin, who acquired it with adjoining properties when the Bucks County Playhouse was created from the former Brown grist mill. The building to be used by the library is said to be originally the ferry store house operated by John Wells as early as 1715. It is a two-story building with ample library room on the ground floor, and an assembly room may be made of the second floor.

The library's present cramped quarters in the Solebury National Bank building have to be vacated. Negotiations for new quarters have been in progress for some time, and this location is believed to be the best available in the community. The library receives no municipal, county or state aid, and is dependent upon public contributions. It began in 1908 as a shelf of books from the State Library in the now defunct Middleton drug store, largely through the efforts of the late Miss Margaret Ely, who was assisted by Mrs. Emma Fell Tinsman and Miss Margaret McLean. The shelf of books grew into a circulating library.

By 1913 the book collection had grown so that larger quarters were demanded, and it occupied the small frame building on Bridge street, which later became a barber shop. Miss Edith Smith then joined the volunteers supporting the library, and under her trained guidance the collection expanded until larger quarters were needed. These were procured in the bank building when the former hotel was remodeled. In 1915 the library was chartered as The Free Library of New Hope and Solebury.

During the World War it was used as an assembly room for local groups and committees, the Red Cross and the visiting nurse. Among other supporters who have advanced the service of the library are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Large.

ship, and two vacancies, this board has degenerated into a shrewish and nagging instrumentality in which the real activity is shown by junior officials ambitious to land one of the vacant places.

THE Federal Communications Commission is another. Here is a Government board which, in the midst of a national emergency, has provoked an unnecessary and bitter row affecting the whole radio business, promising to wreck the existing broadcasting system and threatening general chaos in a very important industry. The merits of the issues raised are not clear except to those who have studied the situation, but certainly the temper shown and the language used by Mr. James Fly would indicate a degree of heat hard to reconcile with the judicial attitude appropriate to the commission of which he is the chairman.

MR. FLY is a friend of Mr. Tommy Corcoran, who at the moment is out of the Government service and busily engaged as a lawyer here in Washington in lining his pockets with fat fees from the very element which for quite a long time he so merrily used as a target. It is not asserted that Mr. Corcoran is in any way back of the recent decision of the Federal Communications Commission—which, by the way, was protested not only by two of its members but by the able and open-minded Mr. Mark Ethridge, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, whom Mr. Roosevelt had asked to make a study of the whole radio situation for him with a view to making recommendations in the public interests.

BEFORE Mr. Ethridge could begin his study Mr. Fly and his colleagues promulgated their drastic order, and this led to a very serious indictment by Mr. Ethridge of the majority of the commission. In effect, he accused it of having deceived the President, of being unfair and unsound in its present action, and in the past, not free from politics in the performance of its ordinary duties, chief of which is the granting of licenses. The Ethridge indictment was the more effective because it came from a recognized friend of the President. Ultimately this muddle will have to be settled by the courts, by a Congressional investigation or by action by Mr. Roosevelt. In any event, it all lends weight to the charge that the President has so much to do these days that he cannot do anything well and that some of the New Deal agencies are running loose and wild.

IT would be easy to pile up more evidence of this slackening in administration. There is the fact that the President has permitted a vacancy on the Supreme Court to exist for nearly four months, although nearly everyone has known for the past two whom he has decided to appoint. There is also the conflict between the fiscal officials of the Government on financial policies. And there is the fact that Mr. Jesse Jones' reputation for efficiency, made as director of the RFC, has decidedly diminished since he took over the post of Secretary of Commerce and control of all other lending agencies, outside of the Agriculture Department. Like the President, he is spread out a little too thin. He is a good man, but he has too much to do.

THE fact is, no one is in position to make the comparison can survey the governmental situation here today without conceding that there has been a distinct and unmistakable decline, which in some spots has almost reached the stage of decay. There is in all this unquestioned evidence that the President has so much to do that he cannot give the time needed to keep the normal governmental agencies up to even the New Deal standards of efficiency. The other way in which it is made clear that his load is too heavy will be given in another article.

"THE GORGON'S MASK"

by Van Wyck Mason

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

The downward path led on towards the lazy rollers that creamed endlessly over black lava and gray-white coral.

Apparently overcome with sheer joy, Nadia, in her native Russian, began to sing one of those quick, irresistibly joyous songs which the moujiks sing on feast days. A few feet ahead of him she was trudging along the path, drawing faint echoes with her rich contralto voice.

"And how was that?" she demanded, looking back over her shoulder at him. The smile faded from her lips when she read the expression on his face.

In an instant that boyish, care-free look had vanished; like a man who sees his doom upon him, Hugh North was peering fixedly past the wall of rock which had concealed an amazing sight until this moment.

Not half a mile away, moved a powerful slate-gray cruiser; smoke curling from her funnels to cast a sinister pall over the smiling blue-green waters through which she plowed.

Majestically behind her came a sister ship, and behind her still another; each with a high scroll of foam under the bows. More similar sleek and efficient killing machines, six in all, sped into sight . . . the Jap fleet!

Three of the battle cruisers passed so near Kauai that North could read their names. Haruna, Kirishima, and Kongo; nor had the parade ended with the juggernauts; they preceded a division of swift and deadly little destroyers and a flotilla of twelve shark-like submarines.

Sharper grew the lines about Hugh North's mouth as he read aloud the numerals painted on the side of the submarine conning towers. "Fifty-three—letter I; 55, 56, 60 and 63 . . ."

It was twenty minutes before the last of the visiting squadron had passed on their fateful voyage to Oahu; twenty minutes in which the two stood in miserable silence.

Finally Nadia said, "Let's go up to the house, Hugh. I'm frightfully hungry; I'm sure Tsing has lunch ready."

After lunch, Nadia cast a quizzical look at her wrist watch.

"It's nearly two o'clock, mon cher, and it'll be hot awhile. Does a nap appeal?"

"Fine," he sighed. "I wouldn't mind forty winks at all."

"Then," she pleaded, "before you start winking, please hang that woolen red blanket over the lanai. I noticed it smelt musty."

"Right—it will be done, your majesty!" Walking just a trifle stiffly, North started for the door.

"Wait!" Nadia suddenly called as she arose and hurried after him. "I'm going to sleep in the sun—the blanket can dry that way."

"Here it is, dear," he smiled as she took it from beneath his arm. At the same time he was indefinitely aware that something had stirred Nadia to her depths.

"Oh, look, Hugh," she cried presently, "there's a motorboat off the point."

Groaning in protest, North roused himself in time to notice the appearance of a swift black launch such as sportsmen customarily employ in tuna fishing. A party of five or six men were in it.

"Nothing to worry about," he drawled as he settled back again. "Just a fishing party, I guess."

Nadia, however, was not to be reassured, and she got her marine glasses which she focused with great care.

From his position on the steamer chair the intelligence captain could not be sure whether her supple figure had stiffened a little or not, perhaps it was only concentration that prompted her to tuck her soft lower lip between her teeth.

"I say, Nadia," he called indolently, "pass me the glass; want a look-see, too?"

"Eh?" Startled, Nadia spun about, and the binoculars slipped from her fingers to shatter themselves on the rocks some thirty feet below.

"Oh!" she gasped ruefully. "My wonderful glasses! They're gone!"

"Too bad," cried North with quick sympathy. "I'll get you some more first time we go in to Waimea."

Half-closing his eyes, he stretched again in the deck chair, and so apparently saw nothing of that sudden pallor which had robbed Nadia's cheeks of color as she caught up her blanket. Crossing to the lanai's rail, she started to unfold it.

"So you're going to sun it after all?"

By the rail she paused as if undecided; then cast him a curious smile. "Can't seem to make up my mind."

"You're sure of one thing, aren't you?" he queried tranquilly. "I am."

"Of that, always," she nodded as to herself. "Well, I've decided I'm not going to sleep, Hugh." She dropped the red blanket onto the matting beside his steamer chair and seated herself on it. "I want to talk, dear. I want to tell you, to explain many things."

"Don't," he said gently, but a look of interest stirred in his eyes. "Let's forget everything. We'll pretend we're dwellers in Nirvana—nothingness."

But he was startled at the earnestness with which she spoke.

"All my life," she began, "I have thought of nothing but what we Russians call the 'Cause.' For its sake I tried to kill in myself every normal feminine instinct—No, you must listen," she said, when in protest he tried to raise his head. "I have squandered, used this alleged beauty of mine as—well, you know. Until two days ago, I have never been troubled, have never questioned life as I know it."

A little convulsively, Nadia pressed closer to him. "I—I am afraid, Mon Dieu! I, who have been brave all my life, have become a coward." Then she poured out the story of her vivid career, told of a dozen desperate missions undertaken, of the terrors of the O.G.P.U. . . . "I thought no more of ordering the death of that treacherous Teodora than that!" She snapped her fingers lightly.

"Did you order her body cast adrift off Kalua?"

Vigorously the girl's coppery head was shaken. "No—that brute Karen thought it would frighten you—and certain others. Bogul! but I tongue-lashed him when I heard of it."

North started. Had a stick snapped somewhere back of the bungalow?

"What's that?"

"It's just Tsing; he's tending to a few things before he turns in for his siesta," she soothed, and her eyes shone with a sudden glow. "Forgive me, Hugh—I have been talking too much. But remember this one thing: I love you, Hugh; I will love you through eternity . . . even after I am gone."

Aroused by her inexplicably fierce earnestness, North raised himself to a sitting position.

"Good Lord, Nadia, what in the world makes you talk like this?"

"Because," she whispered, "I love you more than anything else in this world and I know you would never be happy having lost your honor. Now I will make it possible for you to win yours back . . ."

"Look here," he interrupted, "you're talking sheer nonsense, Nadia. You're upset from what we've been through."

Again, behind the bungalow, a branch thrashed a little noisily. Her eyes glowing, Nadia got to her feet.

"Dear me," she cried, looking at her watch, "it's time for fishing. You'd better get the rods ready. You'll come back for the lunch basket? I'm afraid it'll be too heavy for me."

"Of course, how soon?"

"Oh, in about ten minutes." And as he was about to walk off, he heard her call, "Hugh!"

Turning, he saw Nadia standing in the center of the sun-bathed lanai, a glorious vital figure with both soft arms held out to him, an uncertain smile hovering on her bright lips.

Out of a whirlwind of emotions he beheld a new expression on her exquisite face and knew it was the face of the Red Gorgon—she on whom men looked and died!

"Hugh, my very dear one," she called, "you must kiss me before you go."

Piercely she clung to him; he was amazed to find that her face, usually cool, was now almost icy cold in spite of the warm sun.

"I'll be back soon," he assured her, and ran lightly down the coral walk.

Rounding a clump of bamboos, he leaped from the path into the shelter of a green tangle to his left.

"The Gorgon!" he muttered bitterly and pulled out the compact automatic which had never left him.

There was, North decided, an occasional uncertainty in Nadia's singing voice, as he flattened himself on the ground, while patiently waiting for her group of killers to take their posts. She would be expecting him to come walking joyously back to his death. . . .

Well, he could be hard, too. Eight shots. With his marksmanship he should accomplish a lot before he went under.

Familiar sensations returned when he discerned the outline of a man's head and shoulders stealing down along that walk leading from the slopes above; those same slopes on which he and Nadia had exulted in the peace and beauty of the morning sunshine. One—two—three more shapes, distorted by shadows and sunlight, crept into the back doorway of the bungalow.

Nadia's song faded suddenly in something like a gasp. On the lanai above, feet trampled furiously, a piece of furniture crashed, and then footsteps, running like mad, impinged on the amazed intelligence captain's hearing.

Why, those killers were leaving before the trap had been sprung! Who had bungled?

Quite before he knew it, Captain North was bounding back up the coral path, his .32 automatic flashing in his hand.

"Nadia!" he cried sharply. "Nadia! Nadia!"

Complete stillness ruled in the pretty vine-grown bungalow. With his foot on the lowest step North suddenly checked himself. . . . Most likely this was a homicidal trap!

Inch by inch his eyes rose above the level of the bungalow floor. They encountered something—a pale green shape.

Great grief! Nadia, lovely Nadia, was lying on the grass matting of the bungalow's hall . . . half on one side and half on her back. Nadia! Could that be a black dagger handle projecting at a deadly angle from her side?

Nadia! Could that be she—so perfectly conscious, lay looking steadily, sadly at him from wide pain-filled eyes and with a tired smile curving her lips?

She flinched when North slipped into the room. "So—after all, you never really trusted me?" Her voice was weak, faltering. "Ah, Seigneur Dieu, I—I—Oh, Hugh—Hugh—come to me—there is no danger—they've done all they came to do to . . . me."

Natural Science Ass'n Will Have New Jersey Field Day

A field day of great interest is promised the women and men affiliated with the Bucks County Natural Science Association, when on Saturday they will make a journey to points of interest in New Jersey.

The group will leave the East side of Bristol-Burlington bridge at 10 a. m., with the first stop being at the Benjamin Franklin Park, beyond Rancocas. Next the Zeolite Company plant near Kirby's Mill, will be inspected. This is one of the largest marl pits found in Central Jersey.

The procession will then move on in the direction of Lebanon State Forest. An early box lunch is a necessity as at 1 p. m. the group is due to visit the home of Miss Elizabeth White at White's Bog. Miss White has in her garden stands of almost all the native plants of New Jersey. Miss White is noted for her cranberry and blueberry culture.

The next stop will be at a cedar swamp lake where Golden Club will be seen in great profusion. The party will then make its way on highway No. 40 to Whiting, where charcoal pits will be studied. This section of New Jersey is most active today in this old time industry. The fact that much of the pines of Delaware which used to be made into commercial charcoal now go for wood pulp, made New Jersey business boom. War time industries also were a factor.

We thank Thee, O God, for Thy constant presence with us; for the realization that even if we fly to the uttermost parts of the earth, even there Thou art by our side. Lead us, O Father, to depend more upon Thee, and less upon human strength. Cause us to depend not upon horses and chariots, guns and planes, but upon the love and the mercy of God, which alone can deliver us. May we feel the touch of Thy hand upon ours and Thy breath upon our cheeks. Make Thy way our way; Thy Will our will. Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

When a fast-talking, two-fisted detective tussles with a quick-thinking newspaper gal tracking down a key witness guarded by the detective, the fun begins to fly. Not only fur, but bullets and wisecracks—when the detective is fiction's famous Michael Shayne. "Sleepers West," which features Lloyd Nolan, as Shayne again, Lynn Bari, Mary Beth Hughes, Edward Brophy and Ben "Shadrach" Carter, opens today at the Grand Theatre.

Detective Shayne has been commissioned to conduct Mary Beth Hughes to San Francisco, where she will testify in the Callahan murder trial. They leave on the "Comanche," the crack mountain limited, but they are not alone. A gangster is on board to stop Mary Beth from testifying.

FOOD MARKET

Advice

GOOD news this week for the housewife on a budget is that many foods, ordinarily regarded as luxuries, are so low in price that they can be included on the daily menus, instead of reserved for special occasions.

In the vegetable stalls, green, succulent asparagus, a delicacy but a few weeks ago, is now in the low priced class. From nearby farms, celery knobs, collard and dandelion greens and cabbage sprouts—the spring tonics of the vegetable family, are beginning to arrive. Other inexpensively priced vegetables include carrots, celery, new cabbage, radishes, scallions, spinach, rhubarb and iceberg lettuce.

The fish department offers a number of luxury foods at modest prices this week. Soft-shelled crabs, for hot sandwiches and sautéing, are excellently priced. Shad, although on the wane, is still low in price. Swordfish and sea scallop prices have been lowered. Modest in price also are flounders, yellowtails and mackerel. Both weakfish and bluefish are making their appearance, at reasonable prices.

Broilers Reasonable

A heavy supply of broilers and fryers this week has resulted in special weekend offers by the largest of the food chains. Both are exceptionally low in price for this season of the year. Fowl has dropped fractionally in price, and the supply is larger. Turkeys continue to be reasonable.

The same food chains report slightly lower prices on all beef cuts, enough reduction to make this meat in the budget class. Special weekend values include ribs, porterhouse, sirloin and round steaks, chuck steaks, plate and navel beef and boneless brisket. Lamb, pork, veal and smoked meats are at the same price levels of last week. Veal shoulders and call hams will be weekend buys.

Strawberries Specially Priced

Tempting both in quality and price are the strawberries this week, newly arrived from Louisiana, Tennessee and the Carolinas. Fruit stall additions of the week include Argentine pears and grapes, both at moderate prices. Bananas, grapefruit, and oranges are also excellently priced.

Based on attractively priced foods over the weekend, here is a menu suggested for your next Sunday dinner:

Lamb Patties with Bacon
Lyonnaise Potatoes
Tomato Succotash
Bread and Butter
Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream
Tea or Coffee

ter, opens today at the Grand Theatre. Detective Shayne has been commissioned to conduct Mary Beth Hughes to San Francisco, where she will testify in the Callahan murder trial. They leave on the "Comanche," the crack mountain limited, but they are not alone. A gangster is on board to stop Mary Beth from testifying.

RITZ THEATRE

Pretty Marjorie Weaver, lovely young player on her way to big things in the film world, thought the smart thing to do would be to lose her genuine Southern drawl.

The drawl finally disappeared and Marjorie breathed a sigh of relief. But now, Marjorie was cast as a happy-go-lucky Southern Miss in "Murder Among Friends," currently at the Ritz Theatre.

Mixing comedy, romance and melody, Universal's latest song-titled film, "Where Did You Get That Girl?" will be the attraction at the Ritz Theatre starting today.

BRISTOL THEATRE

With Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra, and a group of swell entertainers and comedians "sendin' solid,"

COTTON STATISTICS

WASHINGTON—(INS)—One out of every 11 acres of cropland in the 10 leading cotton states is unfit for row crop cultivation. The Agriculture Department disclosed recently that 85 million acres of land in the cotton belt are so badly eroded that further use for crops or grazing is impracticable. The Department warned that the land not yet eroded, about 90,000,000 acres, will have to be cultivated under a system of conservation farming if they are to remain permanently productive.

AUTO BOYS BATTLE ODD FELLOWS TO TIE; FINAL SCORE, 4 TO 4

Manager Morgan Goes On
The Hill for First Time
This Season

HIT HARD IN THE FIRST

Only Allowed Two Hits After
He Had Once Got Settled

EDGELEY, May 20—With their manager, "Henny" Morgan, on the hill, the Auto Boys battled the Odd Fellows to a 4-4 deadlock last evening on this field. The game was called at the end of the sixth because of darkness.

Manager Morgan, assuming the peak for the first time this season, was battered unmercifully in the first frame when five hits and a pass accounted for all the Oddies' markers. But from then on, Morgan was a different hurler as he settled back to allow the Radcliffe Street clan but two hits the remainder of the game.

In the meantime, the Auto Boys were pecking at Turner Ashby and after shaving the lead by a two-run spurt in the fourth, finally tied the score in the sixth on a hit by Sweeney, an error, and successive bingles by Beisel and Mulligan.

Both Ashby and Morgan allowed seven hits but those given up by Morgan were practically all bunched in the initial frame to account for the quarter of markers. Ashby fanned seven batters and gave up one pass.

ST. ANN'S HANGS UP ANOTHER VICTORY

"Mike" DeRisi and St. Ann's A. A. hung up their fourth consecutive victory of the Bristol Suburban League last evening on Landreth's field as the Voltz-Texaco team fell victim to the slants of the former West Chester State Teachers College hurler. Final count was: St. Ann's, 5; Voltz-Texaco, 3.

DeRisi was tagged often and hard by the gasoleers but whenever the burly St. Ann's hurler was in serious danger, one of his mates would come up with a fielding gem to retire the side. DeRisi's support in the pinches was of the highest calibre, especially in the final frame when DeAngelo raced into left-center to attach himself to a drive by Cooper.

The losing club made seven clean hits off DeRisi but were thwarted by fine plays by Sagolla, N. Palumbo and De Angelo.

On the mound for the losing aggregation was Hal Shackleton who also was touched for seven hits but three of these were of the scratch variety, representing fast running on the parts of Peterpaul, who beat out two hits and N. Palumbo.

A triple by Anthony Palumbo was the deciding factor of the game as it scored Peterpaul and N. Palumbo with the winning runs. A single by N. Palumbo with Sagolla and Peterpaul on base accounted for two St. Ann's markers in the second.

COSTLY JOY RIDE

BUCYRUS, Kan.—(INS)—It cost the Missouri Pacific Railroad a pretty penny when a load of steel on one of the freight trains crashed through the side of a gondola car and sheared off signal equipment along 17 miles of right of way. A shift in the load caused the steel plates to project through the car. The train—a veritable scythe—sped merrily on and harvested a $7,000 crop in sign posts, signal standards and other equipment before a frantic dispatcher was able to flag it down.

"GLOOMY BILL" STILL PRODUCING GOOD ATHLETES; LOOKS TO BETTER THINGS AS HE COACHES JENKINTOWN'S CROP

Talks of Days at Bristol During Course of Running at Annual P. I. A. A. Meet at Upper Darby, Where His Ace Sprinter Got Off to Slow Starts in Finals of 220 and 100 Yard Dash Finals

By JACK W. GILL

The starters' guns sounded and the dash men sprang from their holes like a group of politicians fleeing from the halls of Senate at adjournment. It took but a fraction over ten seconds to conclude the event. At the end of seventy yards heads shot back and the dig became all the more harder.

Keen eyes followed every move of a sprinter in that heat. The same experienced organs of sight that once expertly peered at Bristol athletes in days past. At Upper Darby Saturday "Gloomy" Bill Dougherty studied every move of his man of the hour, fleet, trail Danny McKeon, Jenkintown's outstanding dash man.

"Doc" hasn't changed much since the days when he tutored local performers. The men who played under him still respect him as one of the best district high school mentors in the business.

A look-see into him after a few years at Jenkintown doesn't change one's opinion. His sharpness in judging form, his alertness in picking up flaws and his downright outspoken qualities still remain.

McKeon, after breaking several long standing records last week in the Montgomery County meet, got off to a poor start in the hundred. This worried the judgy coach, who had him out practicing start after start last week. Systematically pulling the trigger on his star in various pause chants in the "on your mark-set-go" category. Doc was sure that Danny could get out with the pack in the district one meet.

But the best laid plans of men go amiss. His slow start in the century spelled his doom, while in the 220 he was overpowered in the final ten yards by Kirk, of Swarthmore, who turned in a brilliant 22.2.

Talk centered mainly around the sport of the hour, track, as hundreds of well conditioned athletes spun round and round in sectional tests. There is no baseball at Dougherty's Jenkintown plant and it doesn't seem to behoove the Doctor.

"Varsity baseball would have been seen anywhere from 15 to 20 boys playing weekly," said Bill. "With track as a major sport we have around seventy boys competing each week and at least ten on Saturday."

His pet peeve still persists. After ten years of schoolboy coaching bad luck has plagued one of his most treasured objectives. Coach Dougherty simply cannot win a relay title.

That's the kind of luck I've had for the past ten years," he quipped as Bristol's Keith Rosser dropped a baton after 220 yards of his quarter mile leg on the Cards' second turn in the relay. It dropped the locals out of a fine chance to finish in the money. At the time, due to Galzerano's auspicious lead off leg, the homesters were pressing the winning Sellersville-Perkasie aggregation.

Has Heart Wrapped Around Doings of Danny McKeon
Dougherty's main topic of the moment is McKeon. The veteran mentor's interest in track has even increased since the days when he directed cinder doings here. Perhaps this is due to the fact that he has no baseball interference now and can devote more time to training his proteges.

About this time Jack Sugarman, a well built boy from Media, won the half mile in 2:02.6. All agreed that he displayed more impressive track form than any other competitor in the meet. The class A mile proved fast and ended up in the 4:30 classification. Jaws jagged and gums gabbled throughout the affair. Talk flew fast from transforming broken down sprinters into perfectly well timed hurdlers and to Dick Mattis's appointment as Lower Merion head grid director.

Since he first took up coaching duties at Bristol, sportswriters dubbed him "Gloomy Bill." Known for the peculiar trait that is an integral part of all good coaches, the present Jenkintown leader retains more stock pessimism than most of the members of the mob.

For this reason it sounded strange to hear him go out on the well known limb that often topples over. The man actually went head over heels on his next year's grid squad. He intends to change his system around only slightly. The planned alterations will better fit the lighter type of players that he handles at the Red and Blue school. He'll use more spinners and fakes, but will not run them through sturdy lines that go to make up the balanced Bux-Mont conference.

What was the matter last year when his club won only three contests? "Down in the heart," replied Doc. "Those boys had good football in them, but seemed to suffer lapses in team morale."

Frowns Upon Too Much Track Competition For Individual
After ten years in the game, Dougherty now realizes the folly of running good trackmen for harmless but needful points. A good dash man should be kept out of the many pits and throws. And to be a real star in later collegiate competition, a boy in high school must absolutely "stay put" in only a couple of events.

And he has a "personal peeve" to coincide with his "pet peeve." He dislikes the downfall of gymnastics in district one. Recalling the days of the high hopes of a return in the future.

And with that the meet concluded. A breakdown on the good Doctor does the boys good who played under him at Bristol. Nearly every athlete who worked for Bill Dougherty respected his disciplinary methods and good fellowship.

He was the kind of a guy who could practice you till your back sagged, till the sun sank and till the street lights went on. Through it all he could call you anything ranging from this to that. But at the end you couldn't help liking the man.

And he still holds a high spot in his heart for Bristol and Bristol athletes!

Burlington High

Scores Track Victory

Burlington High School prevailed over Bristol in a dual track meet held at Burlington yesterday by a 44 to 37 count. The Cardinals sustained telling losses in the distance runs, pole vault and discus throw.

J. Sagolla turned in the best 100 yard dash of the season for Bristol when he did the century in 10.6. Rosser won the 220 in 24.3 seconds. Versatile Bob Monti again proved a double winner in taking the high jump at 5 feet 6 inches and the broad jump at 20 feet, 1/4 inch. Big Paul Ruby, who tossed the shot put 44 feet, was the only other Bristol winner. The mile relay team scored a one sided victory over Burlington by beating them to the tape by over 100 yards in 3 minutes, 49 seconds.

TRIPLE TIE MAY RESULT

Owls Expected To Send Their Ace Hurler To The Mound

By Jack Gill

Schoolboy diamond warfare may come to an abrupt halt for Bristol High School today, or it may flair into more competition as a result of an unlooked for triumph. For this afternoon at Cornwells Heights, Bensalem, leading the loop by one full pass, faces the Cardinals, who are tied with Newtown for second. Both second place clubs are but one game out of top.

Should Bristol win this game in an upset over Bensalem, and should Newtown defeat Langhorne today at Langhorne, then a triple tie would result. A play-off would then be necessary to determine the challenger of the Upper Division. The Owls will probably send their ace to the mound in an effort to halt Tom Campion's crew. Left handed Ted Devos, hit rather hard this season, but still a consistent winner, has plenty of power behind him. Hank Kilian, George Strickler, Pete Everitt and Russ Jones have been hitting all year.

Bristol will retaliate with Dutch Vandegrift or Jimmy Hopkins on the hill. The fireworks to win must come from such outstanding men as Vince Boccardo, "Army" Capriotti and Tazik. Bobby Barouth and Herby Yates may also get in a battling lick.

At Langhorne, Newtown must get past the Redskins new pitching "find" in Bobby Mitchell. Providing they achieve this feat, they will remain in the running.

But it all depends upon whether or not Bensalem can pull this one big game through. A championship may ride on the outcome.

ROHM & HAAS NINE WINS OVER DIAMOND TEAM

Although he was replaced in the final frame, "Bill" Petrick held the Diamond team in check as the Rohm and Haas nine won its second game of the season with the final tabulations being: Rohm and Haas, 5; Diamond, 1.

During his tenure on the hill, Petrick allowed four hits. When he appeared to be weakening in the final canto and was touched for a hit by Harker and issued a pass to Seibold, he was relieved by Gallagher who filled the bases by walking Fletcher but retired Abute on a grounder for the final out.

Manager Diamanti started "Lefty" Seibold on the mound and from the outset, it was certain that it wasn't Lefty's night for he walked the first two hitters to face him. He was replaced by Richmond who put out the side without a run scoring.

But the chemical workers soon found the formula to Richmond's pitching and scored in every inning he pitched. Frankie Balaz hurled the last inning and was also nicked for a run.

Wally Oppman and Jimmy Massilla had four of the winners' six hits, both being at bat a trio of times.

ROBERT "NED" HARRIS,
HANK GREENBERG'S
FOR THE DETROIT TIGERS

Trials by traverse juries will get under way Monday, May 26th.

In the Court of Common Pleas in the case of Jean Fisher and others against Marguerite Dodd and Harry W. Waterman, Judge Keller handed down an opinion dismissing motions for judgment non obstante verdicto.

The Court further ruled: "No final decree on the motions for a new trial will be made at this time, but if the plaintiffs, Harold Fisher and Emma Fisher, will within 30 days file a disclaimer as to $1,000 of the verdict awarded them, and agree to enter judgment in favor of the plaintiffs in their own right and against the defendants for not more than $209 and costs of suit, then the motions for a new trial will be dismissed. Otherwise the verdict will be set aside and a new trial granted on the grounds that the verdict as to them was excessive."

Judge Keller granted a divorce in the case of Catherine J. Campbell, Warwick township, against John Campbell, of Ireland, on grounds of indignities to person.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer handed down an opinion in the case of Theodore M. Moyer vs Fanny Meray and Eugene Meray, in which the exceptions to the Sheriff's sale and the confirmation of the deed are dismissed and the rule to set aside the Sheriff's sale is discharged at the cost of the petitioner, and said sale and Sheriff's deed are confirmed absolutely.

UNUSUAL COURT SUIT

SPRINGFIELD, O.—(INS)—Court proceedings, believed to be the first of their kind in Ohio, have resulted from the death of a court reporter. John Martin, the reporter, died from injuries received in an automobile accident before he transcribed testimony in a damage suit. The court was asked to set aside a $2,000 verdict given the plaintiff in the action and order a new trial because "no appeal to a higher court could be perfected" without the transcribed testimony.

Nothing makes a selective service man in camp happier than a letter from home or a home-town newspaper in the daily mail, army officials said recently after an extensive survey.

Next in order, the selective service youth likes sweets such as candy, cookies and chocolates—and chewing gum!

Officers say that on the march the gum helps keep the boys from drinking too much water and from dipping into their lunch ration.

Other offerings which bring a smile of pleasure to the enrollee include a general repertoire of utilities among which are books of stamps, flashlights, a towel now and then, toilet articles, and reading materials.

Officers say that if relatives want to be sure their addressee gets what's mailed to him, they should address the letter or package in this way: Name first, his company or battery second, his regiment third, and, lastly the name of the post office.
